NCFR Event Code of Conduct

Introduction

NCFR is committed to providing:

- A safe and collegial environment that fosters open dialogue and the free expression of ideas without harassment, discrimination, and hostile conduct in all in-person and virtual events (e.g., conferences, meetings, webinars, conversations, or other gatherings) hosted by NCFR.
- Equal opportunity and treatment for all participants, regardless of the following:
  - Ability and disability
  - Age
  - Bilingualism and multiculturalism/English language learners
  - Body size and condition
  - Customs and traditions
  - Educational, disciplinary, or career status
  - Ethnicity, race, national origin, or cultural identity
  - Gender, gender identity, and gender expression
  - Geographical background and location
  - Indigenous or immigration status or identity
  - Marital status, relational status (including singlehood), and family structure or identity
  - Objective and subjective worldviews and standpoints
  - Political ideologies and affiliations
  - Religion/no religion, spirituality and affiliations, and faith
  - Sexual orientation, identities, and expressions
  - Socioeconomic status, residential status, social class, employment, and national service

This same commitment is expected of all participants during any NCFR event.

“Participant” refers to anyone present at any NCFR event, including NCFR staff, contractors, vendors, exhibitors, venue staff, presenters, visitors, and attendees, regardless of registration status.

To ensure the best possible experience for all participants, we have established some basic rules and guidelines for participation.

Expected behavior

- We expect all participants to abide by this Code of Conduct in all venues during event sessions, poster sessions, meetings, ancillary events, official and unofficial social gatherings, as well as virtual forums, virtual events, and on social media.
- Exercise consideration in your speech and actions. Be respectful, welcoming, inclusive, and courteous in your speech and actions.
- Maintain civil and respectful dialogue and discussion.
- Respect others: Healthy and challenging debate is core to Family Science. However, the discussions during events are meant to stimulate conversation, not create contention.
- Be mindful of your surroundings and of your fellow participants.
- Be on time or early for your presentation to ensure the session can begin on time.
- Keep posts online related to the session topic, or to NCFR announcements or events.
- Respect intellectual property. Only use content that you have personally created or that you have permission to use and have properly attributed to the content creator, including graphics and images.
- Contact the owner of any material for permission to use the materials.
- Indicate whether individuals have permission to use your materials.

Unacceptable behaviors

- Intimidating, harassing, bullying, abusive, threatening, lewd, discriminatory, derogatory, demeaning speech or actions, or harmful criticism by any participant during any NCFR event and in one-on-one communications carried out in the context of any NCFR events.
- Harmful or prejudicial verbal or written comments or visual images related to gender, gender identity, gender expression, sexual orientation, race, ethnicity, religion, disability, age, appearance, or other personal characteristics as referenced in this policy.
- Inappropriate use of nudity and/or sexual images in public or virtual spaces. In formal presentations, sexual language or imagery in the context of professional study may not constitute harassment; presenters are requested to inform participants about the inclusion of sexual content in their presentation.
- Posting defamatory, abusive, profane, threatening, offensive, or illegal materials or statements.
- Deliberate intimidation, stalking, or following.
- Personally photographing or recording event attendees’ image or voice for the purpose of harassment or discrimination.
- Recording or taking pictures of presentations and sessions without prior consent.

- Sustained disruption or monopolizing discussions during presentations or other events.
- Unwelcome and uninvited attention or contact.
- Sexual or physical harassment and assault (including unwelcome touch).
- Real or implied threat of physical harm.
- Real or implied threat of professional or financial damage or harm.
- Posting commercial messages or fundraising appeals not previously approved.
- Unauthorized attendance in events without proper registration.
- Unauthorized or misuse of resources.
- Terrorism—the use of violence against people or property to intimidate or coerce a civil population to achieve political or ideological gain.
- Underage alcohol possession or consumption.
- Use of illegal drugs.

Alert NCFR staff if you notice a dangerous situation, someone in distress, or violations of this policy. If the event is in a hotel setting also alert the hotel security.

Additional considerations

- Harassment committed in a joking manner still constitutes unacceptable behavior. Sexist, heterosexist, racist, and other discriminatory or exclusionary jokes can be offensive to others.
- Excessive swearing and offensive jokes are not appropriate during any NCFR event.
- Retaliation for reporting harassment is a violation of the Code of Conduct.
- Reporting harassment in bad faith is a violation of the Code of Conduct

Social media and e-communications

Defamatory, abusive, profane, threatening, or offensive comments or posts are considered unacceptable and can result in denial of access and further sanctions as described in this policy.

Weapons policy

Carrying or displaying weapons of any kind, including firearms, is not permitted in any NCFR event or NCFR conference meeting space and meeting rooms. Authorities will be notified should someone be found carrying a weapon.

Conference Registration

- All participants and attendees must be registered for the event to participate.
- Registered attendees for in-person events must pick up their own registration materials. No exceptions.

Consequences of unacceptable behavior

NCFR considers it a form of professional misconduct to violate the Code of Conduct. The consequences for violations will be determined by factors including the immediacy of the threat to attendees, the severity and frequency of the violation, whether the individual has been found to have past violations, and the status of the individual (with those in a position of authority and leadership held to the highest standards of behavior). Agreement to this Code of Conduct constitutes acknowledgement that 1) the possible disciplinary actions for its violation include but are not limited to a verbal warning, removal from an event without refund, restriction on attending future events, and removal from membership.

Reporting harassment or unacceptable behavior

Threatening behaviors, harassment, bullying, intimidation, threats to personal security (e.g., witnessed or experienced), or other unacceptable behaviors noted in this policy, during an NCFR event should be reported. Immediately seek assistance from hotel security, if applicable, the local police (911), and NCFR Staff or an NCFR Board Member who may be reached through emailing conduct@ncfr.org. For emergencies, call 911.

All incidents should be reported and documented by completing an Incident Report for Violations of NCFR's Code of Conduct.

All complaints will be treated seriously and responded to promptly.

Written reports

Any participant who is subjected to or witnesses an incident of harassment or abusive behavior may file a written report. Reports should include identification of the offender (or description); behaviors or actions by that person; circumstances around the incident; day, time, event name; and others present. All written reports are kept confidential to the extent possible. These details are necessary to allow for proper follow-up. Without proper details, it may not be possible to follow-up on the report. NCFR will review all written reports and, if it deems it appropriate, conduct an investigation.

Grievances

A participant who believes they were falsely or unfairly accused of violating this Code of Conduct should immediately notify the NCFR executive director with a concise description of the grievance. All grievances will be handled in accordance with existing governing policies as adopted by the Board of Directors.
