She received her doctorate from Cornell University in human development and family studies. Dr. Hunter’s research focuses on African American families and tackles questions central to public debates about the functioning of these families. These include the study of gender constructions and relations, family structure, social capital/networks, extended families, and family history. For more than a century, African American developmental and family scholars have sought to juxtapose black life against its representations in the American public imagination. These scholars also exposed the interconnections between knowledge, power, and ideas, and the racial politics of epistemology. To reveal the humanity of a people for whom it was denied would require new and re-fashioned theoretical and interpretive tools, and the paradigmatic rifts that resulted would be transformative. This plenary address highlights these paradigmatic rifts and their theoretical legacies in Family Science, as well as what the pain, joy, struggle, and faith of black folk reveal. Sustainable Conference Goals: This evidence-based presentation will (a) strengthen research on race, culture, and families; (b) enhance the work of scholars, educators, practitioners, and policymakers; and (c) provide a critical framework for scholars focused on the design, modification, and evaluations of curriculum and courses. An interactive discussion with Dr. Hunter will take place at the conclusion of this session. Welcome and Introduction to the Conference: Tammy Henderson, Ph.D., CFLE, Lamar University, 2021 NCFR Program Chair Welcome From the Session Sponsor: Ramona Faith Oswald, Ph.D. Welcome and Introduction of the NCFR Board, Editors, and Executive Director, Diane Cushman: Leigh A. 11:45 a.m.-1 p.m.	311	 PLENARY SESSION (NBCC CE Hours: #1 hr. and Conference Attendance Hours: #1 hr.) Emerging Shapes of Families: The Challenge Toward Family and Social Equity , Patricia Matthews-Juarez, Ph.D., is the senior vice president for strategic initiatives and innovation and professor in the Department of Family and Community Medicine at Meharry Medical College. She is also the director of the Research Training Core for the Health Disparities Research Center of Excellence at Meharry. Dr. Matthews-Juarez participates with transdisciplinary and translational teams of scientists interested in exploring the role of epigenetics in chronic diseases and health disparities. Additionally, she works with community organizations and agencies to bring about social equity around social determinants of health. Recently, her research work has been focused on the inclusion of vulnerable populations (LGBTQ, persons experiencing homelessness, and migrant farm workers) in the training of medical students. From a social behavioral perspective, this plenary session will focus on the transformation of the traditional Black family structure as impacted by homelessness and inclusion of fluid gender identity. It will explore how the new emerging structure is changing the ways in which we, as a society, must think, act, and plan about marriage and relationships. Using the family system theory, the session will offer a systematic perspective for fluidity of the Black family structure. In conclusion, the session will posit contributions to the common good through contextual influences, social equity, and social justice. The session will use the "traditional" Black family structure as the metaphor for why the newly emerging family structure will endure. An interactive discussion with Dr. Matthews-Juarez will take place at the conclusion of this session. Welcome From Tammy Henderson, Ph.D., CFLE, Lamar University, 2021 NCFR Program Chair Welcome from the Session Sponsor: Dana Weiser, Ph.D. Introduction of the new NCFR Fellows: Leigh A. 3:15-4:30 p.m.	324 	SPECIAL SESSION: Racial, Ethnic, & Cultural Influences on Black Mental Health During COVID-19: Lessons Learned and Findings (NBCC CE Hours: #1 hr. and Conference Attendance Hours: #1 hr.) Panel: Suzanne Randolph Cunningham, Ph.D., is chief science officer, senior research scientist, and director of continuing education of MayaTech, an applied public health research firm. She served as senior researcher for the Association of Black Psychologists (ABPsi) COVID-19 Needs Assessment Project. She is also associate professor emerita of Family Science at the University of Maryland School of Public Health. Dr. Randolph Cunningham has over 35 years of methodological expertise in survey, experimental, and evaluation research designs applied to the study of social and human services, and public health programs and policies; Andrea Hunter, Ph.D., University of North Carolina-Greensboro; Patricia Matthews-Juarez, Ph.D., Meharry Medical College; Camara Phyllis Jones, Ph.D., National Center for Chronic Disease Prevention and Health Promotion, Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (See full bios of Drs. Hunter, Matthews-Juarez, and Jones under their respective plenary sessions.) Based on a community-based participatory approach, we developed a culturally-responsive needs and assets assessment to address issues related to the COVID-19 pandemic in six Black communities across the United States. An online survey and secondary sources were used to collect data on health, mental health, well-being, coping strategies, family and child life changes, race-related factors, COVID-19 behaviors, and social determinants of health. Social determinants included children experiencing social isolation due to online instruction, cultural mistrust, the intersection of COVID-19 with racial injustices, living in disaster-prone areas, food insecurity, and preexisting health conditions that compounded developmental pathways of participants. Findings from the Association of Black Psychologists (ABPsi) COVID-19 Needs Assessment Project will serve as a centering point with plenary presenters linking similar and dissimilar findings from other studies. The session closes with best practices for culturally accountable mental health strategies and recommendations that could support the acquisition and maintenance of hope, health, and happiness in the face of ongoing layers of daily living, posttraumatic slave distress, historical trauma, survivor’s guilt, and the COVID-19 pandemic. Welcome From Tammy Henderson, Ph.D., Lamar University, 2021 NCFR Program Chair Welcome From the Session Sponsor: Jill Killough, Ph.D. Introduction of Panelists: Dana Weiser, Ph.D. Discussion Moderator: Kani Diop, Ph.D.; Q & A Monitors: Dana Weiser, Ph.D., and Lisa Moyer, Ph.D.; Chat Monitors: Deb Berke, Ph.D. and Sadguna Anasuri, Ph.D. Session Sponsored by: Lamar University - Department of Nutrition, Hospitality, and Human Services

11:45 a.m.-1 p.m.	411 	CLOSING PLENARY SESSION (NBCC CE Hours: #1 hr. and Conference Attendance Hours: #1 hr.) Four Allegories: Tools for Naming Racism and Moving to Action, Camara Phyllis Jones, M.D., M.P.H., Ph.D., is a family physician, epidemiologist, and past president of the American Public Health Association whose work focuses on naming, measuring, and addressing the impacts of racism on the health and well-being of our nation and the world. Dr. Jones is currently the 2021-2022 UCSF presidential chair at the University of California, San Francisco. She recently completed her role as a 2021 Presidential Visiting Fellow at the Yale School of Medicine and as the 2019-2020 Evelyn Green Davis Fellow at the Radcliffe Institute for Advanced Study at Harvard University. She earned her B.A. in Molecular Biology from Wellesley College, her M.D. from the Stanford University School of Medicine, and both her Master of Public Health and her Ph.D. in epidemiology from the Johns Hopkins School of Hygiene and Public Health. She also completed residency training in general preventive medicine at Johns Hopkins and in family practice at the residency program in social medicine at Montefiore Medical Center. Racism is a huge roadblock to achieving health and social equity in the United States, yet many people are in staunch denial of its continued existence and profoundly negative impacts on the health and well-being of the nation. And even those who acknowledge that racism exists sometimes feel ill-equipped to say the word “racism” out loud or take action to address it. Dr. Jones will share four of her allegories on “race” and racism to illuminate four key messages: (1) Racism exists Dual Reality: A Restaurant Saga; (2) Racism is a system Cement Dust in Our Lungs; (3) Racism saps the strength of the whole society Levels of Racism: A Gardener’s Tale; (4) We can act to dismantle racism Life on a Conveyor Belt: Moving to Action She will also provide definitions and action frameworks to equip participants to engage in a sustained National Campaign Against Racism. An interactive discussion with Dr. Jones will take place at the conclusion of this session. Welcome From Tammy Henderson, Ph.D., CFLE, Lamar University, 2021 NCFR Program Chair Introduction of Plenary Presenter: Ramona Oswald, Ph.D. Discussion Time: Moderator: Ijeoma Opara, Ph.D.; Q & A Monitors: Brian Ogolsky, Ph.D. and Catherine Solheim, Ph.D.; Chat Monitors: DeAnna Harris-McKoy, Ph.D., and Joyce Chang, Ph.D. Introduction of the 2022 NCFR Conference: Debra Berke, Ph.D., 2022 NCFR Program Chair
